

China's Asian Infrastructure Investment Bank (AIIB): Challenging Global Financial Power and the "Washington Consensus"

By John Perkins

Asia-Pacific Research, April 06, 2015

CCTV

Germany, France and Italy follow Britain's lead in announcing plans to join a new, $50 billion China-led development institution that could rival the World Bank. Despite pressure from Washington, major U.S. allies have agreed to join the Asian Infrastructure Investment Bank, known as AIIB.

Interview with John Perkins, author of Confessions of an Economic Hit Man

The original source of this article is CCTV

Copyright © John Perkins, CCTV, 2015

Comment on Global Research Articles on our Facebook page

Become a Member of Global Research

Articles by: John Perkins

Disclaimer: The contents of this article are of sole responsibility of the author(s). Asia-Pacific Research will not be responsible for any inaccurate or incorrect statement in this article. Asia-Pacific Research grants permission to cross-post Asia-Pacific Research articles on community internet sites as long the source and copyright are acknowledged together with a hyperlink to the original Asia-Pacific Research article. For publication of Asia-Pacific Research articles in print or other forms including commercial internet sites, contact: editors@asia-pacificresearch.com www.asia-pacificresearch.com contains copyrighted material the use of which has not always been specifically authorized by the copyright owner. We are making such material available to our readers under the provisions of "fair use" in an effort to advance a better understanding of political, economic and social issues. The material on this site is distributed without profit to those who have expressed a prior interest in receiving it for research and educational purposes. If you wish to use copyrighted material for purposes other than "fair use" you must request permission from the copyright owner.

For media inquiries: editors@asia-pacificresearch.com